

Revenue Sources and Advertising Statement

People, Place and Policy is an open-access journal supported by Sheffield Hallam University. The journal does not charge authors any submission fees, publication fees, or article processing charges (APCs), and all content is freely available to readers.

People, Place and Policy does not accept commercial advertising, sponsored content, or advertorial material.

Editorial decisions are made independently of any financial considerations and are based solely on scholarly merit, relevance to the journal's scope, and compliance with the journal's editorial policies.

[End of PPP's Revenue Sources and Advertising Statement]