

Open Access Statement

People, Place and Policy (PPP) is an open-access journal. All content is freely available online without charge to readers or their institutions.

Users may read, download, copy, distribute, print, search, link to, and otherwise use published articles for any lawful purpose without seeking prior permission from the author or publisher.

Authors may deposit pre-print, post-print, and published versions of their work in institutional repositories, subject repositories, pre-print servers, and personal websites without embargo. Where available, authors should provide a link to the published version using the article DOI. Further information is available in the journal's Preservation and Archiving Policy.

Please also read the journal's Copyright Statement and Licence Terms.

[End of PPP's Open Access Statement]